Royal toast to AMS for Oscars triumph

By TYRONE MARSHALL

A Burnley firm enjoyed success at the Oscars after providing sound equipment for the majority of feature films nominated at the prestigious Hollywood ceremony.

AMS Neve has provided audio equipment, such as mixing desks and amps, to create the scoring or soundtracks to most of the year's biggest films, including Inception, 127 Hours and Toy Story 3. One of the latest films to use equipment from the firm based in Billington Road, Burnley, is the BAFTA-winning The King's Speech which won a succession of awards, including Best Actor for Colin Firth.

The soundtrack was recorded, mixed and mastered on AMS Neve machinery at the prestigious Abbey Road studios in Liverpool.

Mark Crabtree, managing director of the company, said: "It is very important that the sound is right.

"If people are going to go to a big movie theatre or have good equipment at home then you need the emotional impact of the sound to come across. For many years now all the top film studios have used our equipment. We have been the mixing console of choice in Hollywood for a while.

"But we are always looking to innovate and have recently worked with the film industry in Serbia and Russia for the first time."

The company's equipment was also used for The Black Swan. Star Natalie Portman picked up the best actress award for her portrayal of a top ballerina in the psychological thriller.

AMS enjoyed success earlier this year with awards for films it was involved in at the BAFTAs and the Golden Globes.

'Violent and racist pupils made life hell'

A Burnley teaching assistant has claimed he suffered 'seven months of hell' at the hands of 'violent and racist' pupils.

Khalid Akram, 34, said he was driven to the verge of suicide by the children at the Rose School, Swindon Street, Burnley.

The school caters for more than 40 pupils with behavioural, emotional and social difficulties.

Mr Akram is preparing to face education bosses at an employment tribunal after being fired in July 2009 for alleged dishonesty and claims he falsified his CV to get the job.But Mr Akram is putting forward a claim for unfair dismissal, over the 'hell' he says he endured.

TRIBUNAL: Khalid Akram

Mr Akram said he was forced to call police after one boy kicked him and vowed to rape his wife and murder his two children.

Another pupil slashed his arm with a pair of maths compasses, he said.

And a girl punched him in the face after unleashing a torrent of four-letter race hate, Mr Khan claims.

Mr Akram said CCTV cameras captured a string of attacks at the state school, but he claimed bosses repeatedly ignored his pleas for help.

He said: "I've been to hell and back over this.

"I've been degraded and treated worse than an animal but no one was there to help me.

"What I experienced turned my life upside down – I wouldn't wish it on my worst enemy."

Mr Khalid's tribunal is scheduled for September, when he will argue that the failure of management to deal with the abuse against him led to post traumatic stress disorder, which he said he has been diagnosed with by two psychiatrists.

He denies the school's allegations of dishonesty and claims that he has come close to suicide.

Lancashire County Council, which runs the school, declined to comment because of the tribunal.

Alarm over TV star's accent

TWANG: Jody Latham

Pendle actor Jody Latham has come under fire from soap fans after making his Eastenders debut — for speaking with a Lancashire accent.

Avid fans of the BBC1 primetime soap have flooded internet forums, complaining about the Barrowford actor's 'strong' accent being difficult to understand.

Former Walton and Park High pupil Jody, who last week appeared in Albert Square for the first time, plays Paul, who is set to sexually exploit Whitney Dean in a hard-hitting storyline.

Despite being impressed by the 29-year-old's acting skills, several fans have been less enamoured with his East Lancashire twang.

Give Gary a hand with his recovery

Clarets fans will be able to offer messages of support for Gary Parkinson (left) in a special tribute book which will be located at the main reception in the Bob Lord Stand at Turf Moor, every week day until Friday, March 11.

The former Burnley defender is continuing to make slow progress after a serious stroke last September. A host of old team-mates will raise funds for his rehabilitation in the James Hargreaves Suite at Turf Moor on Sunday. For tickets call Veronica Simpson on 07974 310099.

Homes planned

Councillors will discuss plans to build 22 new homes on the Spring Mill site, Fence, next Thursday. Old Laund Booth Parish Council is supporting the proposal but suggesting flood assessments are carried out.

The write stuff

Performers are perfecting their lines ahead of the Burnley Festival of Speech and Drama, being held at Thomas Whitham Sixth Form, Barden Lane, from 11am on Saturday.

Red Robin has dream realised

By JON LIVESEY

A brave little boy with a debilitating disease has seen a dream realised after stepping out with the Accrington Stanley team at the Crown Ground.

Robin Carter, five, who has a form of cerebral palsy, led the Stanley players on to the pitch and helped inspire them to their 1-0 win over Torquay on Saturday.

The Earby youngster, who relies on a crocodile frame to get around, is set to undergo a life-changing selective dorsal rhizotomy – or SDR – operation in Missouri, America, on May 16.

Last year, his family set up the 'robinSDReams' campaign to raise £45,000 to pay for the surgery, which targets nerves which cause spasms.

Robin also joined his mum Natalie to ask fans to donate. Natalie said: "He absolutely loved it.

VIP GUEST: Robin leads out the teams at the weekend

"It was the best thing he's ever done.

"He felt like he was famous.

"He was at practice before the match and all the lads were brilliant with him.

"They gave him a ball and he has not stopped looking at it."

Natalie said £20,000 had been raised so far.

The next fundraiser will be a race night at the Station Hotel, Nelson, at 7pm on Saturday.

History tour

An insight into the history and restoration of Higherford Mill, in Barrowford, takes place on March 16, from 2.30pm.

A guided tour of the Gisburn Road site will take place with the Friends of Pendle group and there will be a lecture by Frank Walsh. Entry is £2.

Bikes warning

Police are urging bike owners to get their property marked.

PCSO Frank Franco, who covers Burnley town centre, said: "Our advice is never to leave your bike unattended unless it is securely locked to an immovable object and get your bike security marked."

A grand gesture

A charity curry night in aid of Burnley homeless charity Emmaus raised £1,000.

The event was held at the award-winning Usha restaurant in Rossendale Road. Former Burnley MP Peter Pike, charity chairman, said: "A hundred people had a enjoyable meal."

Tina and Shayne are on the ball!

TV STAR: Former Coronation Street actress Tina O'Brien

Stars will be coming out to play as the famed Soccer Six tournament hits Turf Moor this summer.

X Factor winner Shayne Ward is the latest celebrity to sign up for the June 5 championship, at Burnley FC's home.

And just to show girls are not being left on the sidelines, former Coronation Street sweetheart Tina O'Brien, now starring in Waterloo Road, has also signed up.

Her on-screen colleague, Simonstone's own Lucien Laviscount, will also be taking part, hoping to have a home field advantage for the six-a-side summit.

Club commercial affairs director Anthony Fairclough said: "To have a star like Shayne Ward confirmed at this early stage shows what a fantastic and unique event the Soccer Six tournament promises to be."

Borough council chief executive Steve Rumbelow added: "It will be a really exciting day, great for the club and great for Burnley."

Defending champions are Jeff Brazier's team. Other stars lined up include ex-Brookside star Jack McMullen and Eastenders and Hollyoaks favourite Devon Anderson. The tournament will also feature a trio of Big Brother contestants – Craig Philips, Anthony Hutton and Kris Donnelly.

Melvyn looks at reel history

Later this year author and broadcaster Melvyn Bragg, 71, well known for presenting The South Bank Show, will host new BBC2 series The Reel History Of Britain, examining how life in Britain used to be.

60 SECONDS WITH ... MELVYN BRAGG

TELL US ABOUT THE REEL HISTORY OF BRITAIN

In my view it's also the 'real' history of Britain because, for the first time in human history – as big as that – the majority of people have a chance to say what their place in history is; what they did. Now, because of the arrival of film and the making of archives – which have been kept at the BFI and the BBC and various other places – and because of people's own films and because of photography and the photographs they have and people keeping diary entries, we can bring together what is the real history of this country.

WILL YOU CONTRIBUTE ANY OF YOUR OWN FOOTAGE?

I'm not going to because it isn't about me. It's very much about other people. I'm just the enabler, I'm the kind of ear and the off-screen listener to people and what they have to say. It's people's history. That's the whole drive of it.

CAN YOU REVEAL ANY HIGHLIGHTS, OR IS IT STILL A WORK IN PROGRESS?

It is a work in progress, but some of the highlights are some of the documentaries, which are astonishing. You get some wonderful films of coal mining, which are just so raw. You look at these heroic men; you only see them for three or four minutes, you think: "God, they walked two miles to get there to do that. They did that for eight hours and then they walked back". We're after contributions from people. We're looking for bits of film, or photographs. They'll be well taken care of by the BBC.

Rocker moves on

By KATE TURNER

PAST AND PRESENT: Bev (second left) with The Move today and, below, the band in the 60s

Not many people can boast playing drums for the likes of The Move, Electric Light Orchestra and Black Sabbath.

But for rocker Bev Bevan these are just some of his many claims to fame. Others include touring with Jimi Hendrix, and working with the likes of Jools Holland, Lisa Stansfield, Olivia Newton John, The Everly Brothers, and Rick Astley.

He is back on the road with former band member of The Move, Trevor Burton, and they are stopping off at The Grand, Clitheroe, tomorrow (Thursday), along with newest members Phil Tree on bass, Neil Lockwood on keyboards, and Gordon Healer on lead guitar. They will be playing alongside John Steel and Micky Gallagher, members of '60s supergroup The Animals in their latest incarnation Animals and Friends. "We are looking forward to coming to Clitheroe. It's somewhere we haven't been before and hopefully we will have a few hours to have a look around," said Bev, now 65, who hails from Warwickshire. "It's great working with Animals and Friends. They are really great guys and together I think we put on a good show."

■ The Move and The Animals and Friends at The Grand, Clitheroe, tomorrow (Thursday). Tickets £17.50 on 01200 421599.

The business, based in Keirby Walk, Burnley, was established more than 10 years ago by David Holland.

And over the last decade, thanks to the quality of the products he offers, coupled with the best in customer service, David now has a strong and loyal client base.

The result is that a high percentage of his trade today comes from repeat custom, or on recommendation from satisfied householders.

Burnley Sunblinds offers a vast selection of vertical, roller, Venetian and pleated blinds in a colourway, or design, to suit every home, taste and pocket.

There are literally thousands of blinds to choose from, whether you are looking for traditional, or contemporary colours and patterns.

But if you only need to replace one, or a few vertical louvres, the business will do that for you, too.

The business manufactures roller blinds and vertical blinds in-house, with other ranges being supplied from top-name manufacturers.

The shop has scores of displays, or customers can make their choice from a large selection of pattern books.

Burnley Sunblinds makes home visits to specified appointments and offers a free measuring and fitting service.

Its service is also available to commercial and business premises.

Said David: "Burnley Sunblinds is today renowned for its quality blinds and a polite and friendly service.

"Prices are competitive, but you can always be assured of the best in service and products, whatever your choice.

"We can offer any help and advice.

"There are thousands of blinds to choose from and new designs are continually being introduced, but we can aid in the selection process, advising on the best one for your room and colour scheme."

The shop Monday to Friday, 8.30am to 2.30pm, and Saturday 9am to 1pm.
